DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of the third species as shown in Figures 2a and 2b and claimed in claims 5-14, in the reply filed on December 30, 2004 is acknowledged.

Claims 1-4 and 15-20 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 1 recites the limitation "the sloped surface" in line 7 on page 12. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 5-8 and 12-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Schmidt (U.S. Patent No. 5,395,674). Schmidt discloses in Figures 7 and 8 a condom (100), which is shown positioned about the distal end of a penis (102), the textured portion of the condom includes a plurality of elongated large chambers (104) in communication with small chambers (106) via passageways (108). Figure 8 illustrates the underlying membrane (10) deformed upwardly (112) to nest within small chamber (106). Schmidt discloses during use, the resilient wall (103) would migrate as indicated by arrow (114) causing large chamber (104) to collapse forcing entrained fluid through passageway (108) into small chamber (106), therefore, the increased pressure in small chamber (104) force the outer wall of the chamber to expand as depicted by dashed line (107), thereby, creating an apex formed by short slopes and long slopes. The inside angle and the outside angle of the apex would inherently being 0 to 90 degrees. The chambers (104, 106) are reversible and the movement of the chambers would inherently extend outwardly and inwardly relative to the longitudinal axis of the condom during use.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schmidt (U.S. Patent No. 5,395,674). Schmidt discloses in Figures 7 and 8 a condom (100) comprising elements as recited in these claims including the chambers filled with a fluid but does not teach the fluid taken from the group consisting of a gel, a saline solution, a polymer, a foam, and as well as a sponge. Applicant does not disclose criticality for the material filled in the chambers, therefore it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to have utilized any of the mentioned rigid or semi-rigid material as recited for the purpose of providing congealment during movement in the chambers.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
